Lincoln Park Conservatory | Architect: Joseph Lyman Silsbee | Style: Victorian | Opened: 1895

In the late 19th century, conservatories became popular as people became concerned with the effects of industrialization. When the Lincoln park Conservatory was completed in 1895 it was described as a “paradise under glass”.

LINCOLN PARK

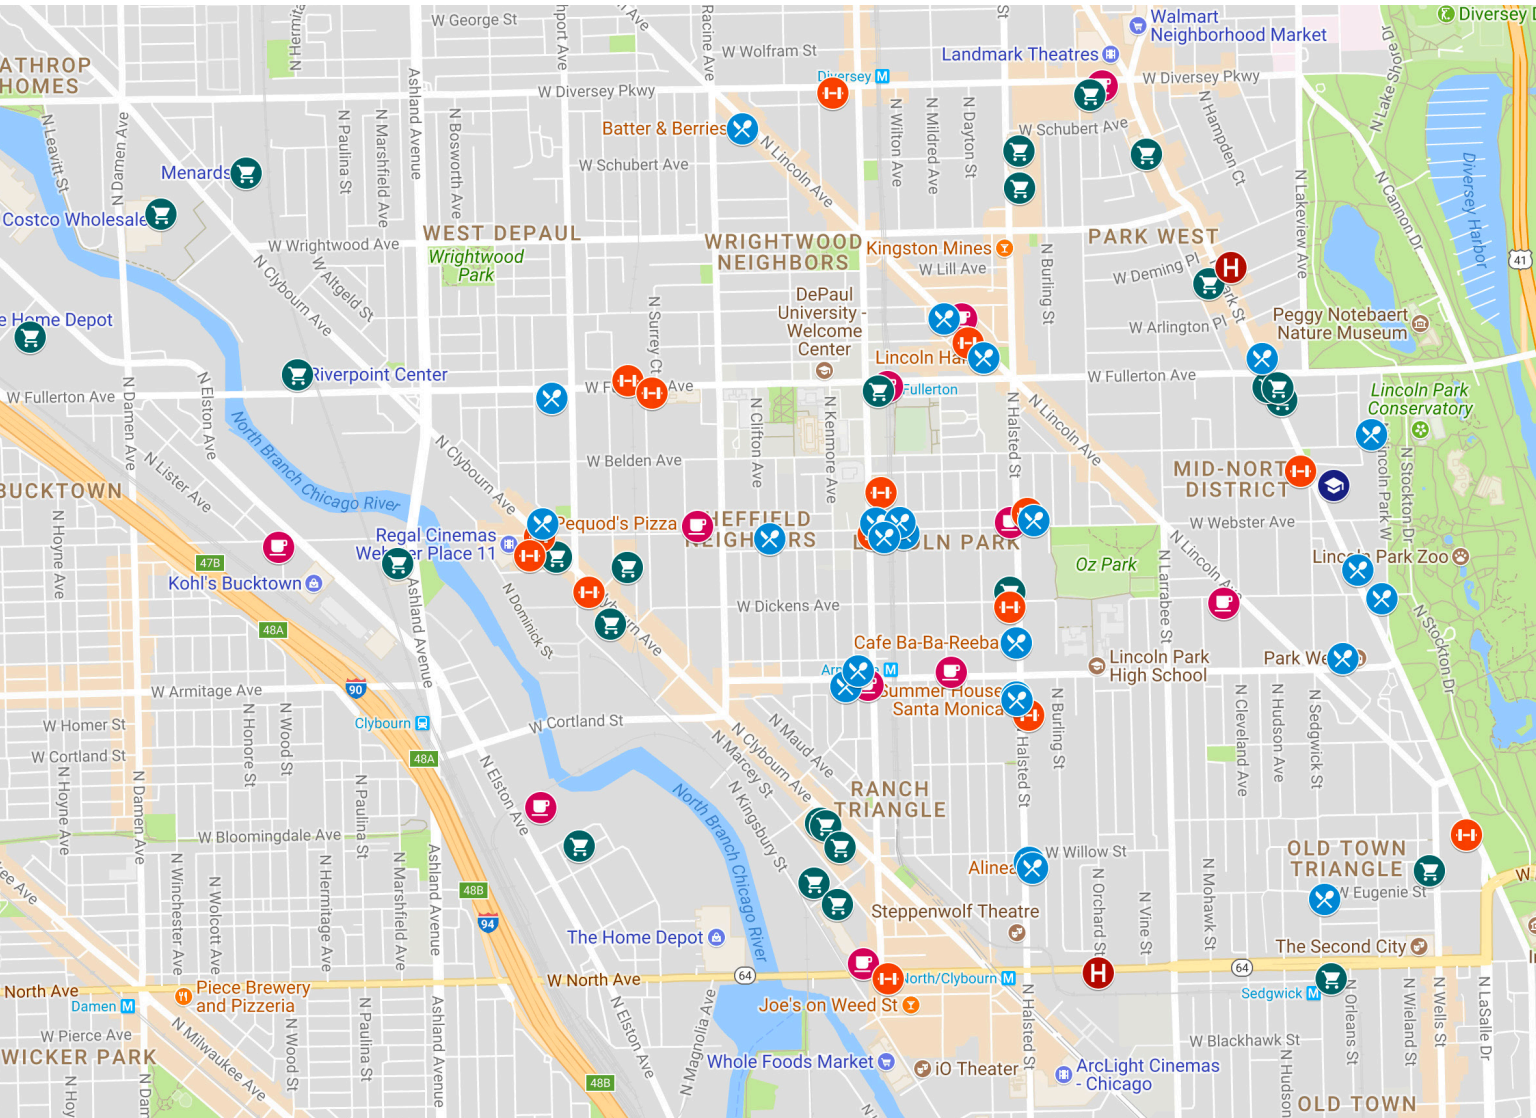

The jewel of the Lincoln Park neighborhood is its namesake, Lincoln Park. This 1200-acre greenspace is set on the shore of Lake Michigan and contains one of the nation's oldest zoos and the Lincoln Park Conservatory. Scenic Lake Shore Drive runs along the park's east edge.

The area between Armitage Avenue, Willow Street, Burling Street, and Orchard Street was named Chicago's most expensive block by Forbes magazine.

A mix of gorgeous 19th-century architecture, upscale shops, and high-end restaurants is found here.

The neighborhood has great restaurants. Clark Street is known for its eclectic mix of small bookstores, record stores, and clothing shops.
